selecting a template (see Section II, pg. 2 - Locating templates; see also Figs. 1, 2, and 3) within the word processing software module, the template operable for storing styles (see Section II - Overview of templates, pg. 1 → A template determines the basic structure for a document and stores document settings such as AutoText entries, fonts, key assignments, macros, menus, page layout, special formatting, and styles; see also Figs. 4 and 5);

associating the template with a style group; transferring the styles of the template to the style group; (see Fig. 5 and 6; Section III, pgs. 2, 3, and 5 → In the Styles box, click on the style you want to apply. If the style you want is not listed, select another group of styles in the List box. Or you can preview and apply different styles by using the Style Gallery), the style group operable for storing styles that provide a format for creating the web page (see generally Section III - What is a style?, pg. 1); and storing the style group for subsequent use in creating the web page (see Figs. 7 and 8 \rightarrow "Save As" a Document Template).

Claim 2

Word further teaches accessing a markup language module (see Fig. 9 and $10 \rightarrow i.e.$ Web Pages); naming the style group within the markup language software module (see Figs. 13- $16 \rightarrow$ renaming the style group from ZZZZZ to AAAAA); and locating the template associated

Word further teaches selecting the styles from the template (see Figures 13, 16 and 17); defining attributes for the selected styles...web pages (see Figure 6 \rightarrow user can define various attributes such as "style type, based on, and style for following paragraph," etc.); and importing the selected styles into the markup language software module (see Figs. 16-18 \rightarrow the selected styles are imported to the markup language software module by selecting the "copy" button).

Claim 4

Word further teaches defining instructions for the style group, the instructions operable for providing information about the web page (see Figs. 12 and 13 → i.e. Header, Footer, E-mail Signature, Envelope Address, Document Map, etc.).

Claim 5

Word further teaches customizing a file header (see Figs. 6, 7, 12, 13, 16-18 \rightarrow i.e. Headers and Headings).

Claim 6
